TV reception in the digital age

TV as we've known it for some 50 years is changing. Digital television (DTV) is coming into more American living rooms than ever before through subscription services (cable and satellite) and free, over-the-air broadcasts. CEA has a resource for DTV consumers who want to receive their programming for free through antenna reception.

CEA's AntennaWeb, www.AntennaWeb.org, is an online mapping tool that helps you determine which type of outdoor antenna to purchase. Whether the antenna you want is for use with a home satellite system, high-definition television (HDTV) or a traditional analog set, this site will show you what you need to know to buy the right antenna. Just key in your address in the secure site and AntennaWeb will guide you step-by-step to find the right antenna for your specific location.
